

What's NEW in ProQuest Nursing & Allied Health Source™!

ProQuest Nursing & Allied Health Source offers enhanced allied health coverage and access to definitive information from journals, evidence-based resources, cultural competency reports, nursing reference books, multimedia content and dissertations. It provides a valuable resource for reference, study and professional development for healthcare researchers, allied health professionals, nurses and students.

MORE Full-text nursing dissertations

As well as 650+ full-text journals, ProQuest Nursing & Allied Health Source now contains over 12,070 full-text nursing dissertations.

NEW Cultural competency reports

- Database of reports enabling health service professionals to provide culturally competent patient care
- Based on reviews of the scholarly literature and government reports
- Covering 30 ethnicities and 11 religions

NEW Multimedia nursing procedure content

Exclusive aggregation video training content from MedCom Inc is now available in ProQuest Nursing & Allied Health Source covering nursing procedures and bridging the gap between study and practice.

With over 300 videos that are broken down into chaptered clips averaging 2-5 minutes in length and available in Flash format, they can be downloaded for future reference.

NEW Nursing reference books

ProQuest now offers 12 nursing reference books from Springer Publishing Company, including:

- Encyclopedia of Nursing Research (2006 AJN Book of the Year Award Winner)
- Teaching Evidence-Based Practice in Nursing: A Guide for Academic and Clinical Settings (2006 AJN Book of the Year Award Winner)

NEW Study Paths

Recommended reading by nurse educators to support students in their research and study.

Evidence-based nursing content from the Joanna Briggs Institute

ProQuest Nursing & Allied Health Source now includes searchable evidence-based nursing content from the Joanna Briggs Institute (JBI), the leading source for evidence-based nursing reviews and review tools.

Established in 1996, with collaborating centres around the world, JBI presents information that allows practising nurses and nursing students to see clearly and simply where nursing interventions are supported by evidence.

JBI content in ProQuest Nursing & Allied Health Source includes:

Systematic Reviews

- Comprehensive reviews of the international research literature
- Completed by trained JBI reviewers, and peer reviewed by at least two researchers
- The gold standard of nursing information

Best Practice Information Sheets

- Derived from the findings of a Systematic Review
- Short easy-to-read practice guidelines
- For busy health professionals to access key issues and recommendations

Evidence Summaries

- Short extracts of research literature on selected clinical topics
- Based on structured searches of the literature
- Selected evidence-based healthcare databases
- Focus on the characteristics of the evidence, the clinical bottom line and best practice recommendations

THE JOANNA BRIGGS INSTITUTE

Also available are the RAPid and SUMMARI resources from JBI, which can be linked to from your ProQuest Nursing & Allied Health Source subscription.

RAPid

- An online training resource that helps students to critically appraise, summarise and report on evidence for good nursing practice
- Supports the development of skills in posing relevant questions about the feasibility, appropriateness, meaningfulness, and effectiveness of an intervention

SUMARI

- A developing software package designed to assist health and other researchers and practitioners to conduct systematic reviews
